Nonvoice Expands Agent Team to Address 5G Market Growth

October 16th 2020, New York, USA – With new 5G launches and initiatives happening daily around the world, Nonvoice has added several more industry experts to its agent team. As the only agency dedicated to offering direct access to ‘Best in Class’ 5G apps, industry experts are flocking to the offer their expertise to the agency’s app developer clients.

Joining the current line-up of agents are:

- Paul Johnson - a digital product innovation veteran, having worked in TV, entertainment, ecommerce and telecoms for some of the biggest brands around the world.
- Daryl ‘Dogman’ Young – the well-known entertainment and music producer as well as serial entrepreneur
- Alex Chu – a China-based mobile professional who specialises in influencer and social media marketing.
- Khawar Neem – who is based in Pakistan in the South Asia and is a marketing professional with international experience in Telecom partnerships; and
- Peter Tomlinson, the Europe-based manufacturing and supply chain solution expert who is also a seasoned Angel investor

Nonvoice’s network of agents have a combined knowledge and experience that is unparalleled anywhere else in the industry. Agents perform two main roles in the agency- they bring 5G and near 5G apps to Nonvoice for distribution and funding and find ways to monetize the apps we already represent at the agency.

“I am humbled by the interest that the agency has received and the calibre of professionals who have signed up as agents. As an entrepreneur it is hard to guarantee if others will share your vision especially with a concept that has never been tried before. I am delighted that everyone feels the same as I do – that there is a need for app developers to have expert representation to help make their apps a success,” commented Simon Buckingham, Nonvoice CEO.

New agent, Peter Tomlinson added: “I have been in the industry for over 40 years and, although I should probably be considering retirement, when Simon approached me about Nonvoice I was keen to be involved. When you think about the concept of Nonvoice it is one of those ‘why didn’t I think of that’ moments. I am looking forward to sharing my extensive industry knowledge, as well as my wisdom from being an experienced Angel Investor”.

The Nonvoice agent network spans not only all corners of the globe but all specialist areas within the mobile market so that clients can connect with the agent or agents that are best placed to make their app a success. Current clients who are benefiting from these specialist services include: GIZER, the mobile gaming app that has recently launched a mobile browser version of their esports platform; STATEMENT GAMES, the sports focused social gaming and MarTech platform that puts an innovative twist on these services and; BOOKFUL, the leading augmented reality (AR) for children that makes learning fun.
